

Creativity: The Other Side of the Brain

(Appendix 7)

Understanding the styles and colors for the home décor industry are portrayed in individual attached projects that demonstrate an appreciation of the arts, in the thumbprints listed below. The following thumbnail pictures will also demonstrate how certain balances of color and light create different pictures. In comparison to an organization, the balances that management creates will determine the health of any organization. For non-written development, life can also be like a symphony as I have enjoyed being an accomplished pianist for nearly 25 years from contemporary pop music to the blues. Practice, practice, practice is even a requirement of creative expression. Through this development that began in my youthful days, it has drawn much appreciation to understanding patterns, trends, rhythmic flow and proper transition. Please check my website for examples of solo musical excerpts.

Personally painted this watercolor picture

Personally sketched this picture with color pencils